Bonhams<sup>1793</sup>

Bonhams, established in 1793, is amongst the world's leading international fine art auctioneers.

Bonhams operates in no fewer than 70 art market sectors and conducts more than 700 sales each year - more than any of its rivals worldwide. The company holds more than 60 picture sales every year in London alone.

Bonhams' main international salerooms are at the auction house's New Bond Street headquarters and they are supported by a second busy saleroom in Kingsbridge. In addition, a further network of salesrooms extends both throughout the UK and internationally.

Bonhams' exceptionally multi-capable picture departments offer unlimited expertise and year-round Sales offering everything from Old Masters to Modern and Contemporary art, Watercolours and Prints. In addition, Bonhams boasts an unrivalled reputation for its themed picture sales, which provide constant tightly-focused appeal to private buyers and sellers alike.
